

ROYAL BRISBANE HOSPITAL FOOD COURT

Client Royal Brisbane Hospital Scope Wall and Glass Graphics, Retail Signage Year 2003

The design of the new Food Court at the Royal Brisbane and Women's Hospital by Daryl Jackson Di Carlo Potts Architects includes signage that matches its retail, non-hospital look. A simple graphic belt rail of food descriptors runs over a large wall graphic of food drawings and provides definition to the restaurant space. A text of food preparation methods helps screen the staff dining area and precedes the food counters whilst signage at food outlet counters uses simple food drawings as a descriptive of what's beneath the bain-marie.