

ROCKS RIVERSIDE PARK

Client Brisbane City Council Scope Wayfinding and Signage Year 2003 Production Budget $200,000

This new public park was the site of the Queensland Cement processing park on the edge of the Brisbane River. The park now features shelters, barbecues and waterplay areas adjacent preserved industrial machinery and artefacts. The family of wayfinding and interpretive signs extends the industrial aesthetic using robust materials such as punctured galvanised steel plate.